

WILSONVILLE NEWS

By VELMA HOLTZE and Laurie Laws

The Craig Mohr's left for their home in Eagle on Wednesday following his mother, Betty Murphy's funeral. Floyd and Linda Slay and Jason Mohr returned to their home at Mobile, Ala., and Jim and Sherrill Hayes to Lincoln on Friday. They had also come for their mother's funeral. Others coming for the services and some visited at the home of Jim and Becky Holtze were Wanda Wolfe, Grand Island and her daughter, Keffanie and son of Kearney, Pam Steiner of Omaha, Jean Ritterbush, Franklin, Neb., Ivalene Simmons, Oshkosh, Neb., Russ and Kendra Hoagland, Hastings, Rich Simmons, North Platte, Russell and Michelle Simmons, Hays, Allen and Diane Hallam, Kearney as well as several from Cambridge. Curtis and Evelyn Kasson and Sandi Kasson also came from Wichita returning that evening to be with Dennis Kasson. They report that Dennis is showing improvement and they are hoping that soon he will be ready to start therapy and rehabilitation.

Russell and Michelle Simmons and baby Elissa came Saturday evening from Hays, to spend Labor Day weekend with his grandmother, Velma Holtze. On Sunday afternoon Michelle and baby drove to McCook where she visited a college friend who was there visiting her parents.

Several visitors at the Baptist-Christian worship service on Sunday morning increased the attendance. It was especially nice to have Pastor Keith's family, which included his wife, Pat, his daughter and husband and his son, Travis Thiobald. Visitors at the Methodist Church included Margaret Spence's son, Lonnie Spence and Annie Thomson and Lillian Lemaster's daughters, Carole Volker and Marie and Norris Smith.

Recent callers at the home of Dean and Margaret Brown since Margaret returned home from the hospital have been Lillian Lemaster, Velma Holtze, Alice Kasson, Virginia Rice, Carla Holtze, Margalee Ruf, Dale Murphy, Daryl, Melody, and Britany and grandsons, Braden and Addison Jones, Nick Brown, Margene Holtze, Russell and Michelle Simmons and baby, Hays, Ben and Mandy Brown, Lincoln, Scott Propes, McCook and the Darrell Browns. Gary and Karen Brown took dinner on Sunday, Aug. 29 and ate with them. Daughter, Deanna Propes of McCook has been there several days and accompanied them to Kearney on Tuesday. Those who visited while she was hospitalized were Alicia Brown and Chelsea Ruf, Luke Brown all of Kearney and Darrell and Eula Brown, Beaver City.

Carla Holtze drove to Hastings to her daughter, Kendra Hoaglands and family on Thursday afternoon. She returned home on Saturday afternoon.

Arriving Thursday at the Dick McLaughlin home was his sister, June and Robert Gilstrap of Hillsboro, Texas. All of them spent Friday through Monday at the craft and antique show at Lexington.

Labor Day weekend guests of Margaret Spence were family members including Ron and Vada Krause, Kim Gordyn and Tom Pfeiffer, Dave and Cindy Metzler, Ashton and Jacob, Lonnie Spence and Annie Thomson. All enjoyed Sunday dinner at the Krause cabin at the lake at Republican City. Lonnie returned to their home on Sunday evening while the others returned home on Monday.

In honor of Steve Rice's birthday, his parents, Kendall and Virginia Rice, entertained at supper on Sunday evening, with his wife and boys, Bob and Jean Gardener, of Beaver City and the Doug Witte family.

Babies, Babies, Babies

There are several sets of beaming grandparents in the Wilsonville area. Mary Wilson spent several days in Kansas City helping care for her and Dales new granddaughter, Paige Elizabeth, daughter, of the Wilson's daughter, Julie and husband Tom Stanek.

Vic and Nancy Knutson are grandparents of their first grandchild, Conner Lee, who was born at the Gothenburg Hospital on Aug. 31. The proud parents are Katy and Doug Snyder rural Farnam.

Avis Wolfe reports a great granddaughter, Paige Nicole, at Holdrege. Her parents are Stacy and Si Shepherd. The maternal grandparents are Mien and Judy Wolfe all of Holdrege. Avis visited the family on Friday.

Baptist-Christian Women

Members attending the Baptist-Christian Women's Fellowship meeting on Sept. 2 were soon deeply engrossed when lesson leader, Virginia Rice, gave a very interesting lesson, beginning with excerpts from the book, "Women of God" and having members giving scripture readings. She followed with a very interesting video. Velma Holtze led the worship service.

Death

Kendall Rice's received word on Sunday from the Rev. John Akers, a former minister of the Baptist Church, that his wife, Marjorie, had passed away that morning.

Hospital patients

Nadeane Haag was taken to the Cambridge hospital on Tuesday morning and then sent by ambulance to Kearney where she was a patient until Saturday with heart problems.

Arle Bethel was also a surgical patient in Cambridge on Thursday. He is recuperating at home.

Joe and Alice Kasson drove to Wichita this past week to spend a little time with Dennis Kasson, his wife, Sandy, and his parents, Curtis and Evelyn. Sunday afternoon Jim and Becky Holtze and Janene drove to Wichita to see the Kassons.

Velma Holtze attended the Security Gold chocolate evening at Holbrook on Thursday evening sponsored by the bank. The unique attraction to most of those present was the chocolate fountain. Everyone enjoyed all kinds of chocolate goodies. Surprising how many found they even had chocolate on the table cloth as well as on their clothes before the evening of bingo ended.

Special music at the Baptist-Christian Church was the prelude, a piano-organ duet played by Janene and Margene Holtze.

Saturday Pat Yost attended the funeral of Augusta Miller in McCook with her sister, Jeanie Miller of Longmont, Colo.
