Children help dogs and cats

Animals at the Norton Animal Shelter are once again the beneficiaries of the Mittens for Kittens project founded by Michelle Armbrister.

In conjunction with the Norton Animal Health Center, Mrs. Armbrister hosted a drawing contest and a drawing for a remote controlled car.

Rachel Jones, Norton, won the radio-controlled Escalade. All the children who entered pictures in the contest won a prize from Mrs. Armbrister.

She said, "I really appreciate the community for their wonderful support every year. I had a lot of help from Drs. Aaron and Sarah White, Nex-Tech, Channel 6 and KQNK's Party Line."

If anyone wants to donate to the charity to benefit the shelter, you may call her at 877-5451.

"As a coach, you always have that little block of doubt, insecurities, especially when things aren't going well. You hear people talking about you, you see boosters getting together. That hurts. On the outside, you have to be up, but on the inside, there's always a block of insecurity, a speck of a lack of confidence. That part of the movie was so real. And then seeing the coach turn to God, turn to the Bible to work through that. I could relate to that so much."
Coach Dickey Nutt

"This family-friendly and faith-filled motion picture is currently winning the hearts and minds of grassroots America. My wife, Gena, and I have seen it three times and taken others!"
Chuck Norris, via WorldNet Daily
