Normal High: 44

Storm of the Century? Probably not, because in a northwest flow pattern storm systems move quick and lack deep Gulf moisture, unlike low pressures that come out of the four corners region. A couple disturbances will trigger flurries and light snow showers Wednesday and Friday and keep temperatures cold through the period. Even light snowfall may cause some isolated travel concerns will snow already piled up and still covering the fields. Maybe by the end of next week highs will again reach the 40's.
