Easy, money-saving tips can help cut grocery bill

Amid rising prices, consumers can still trim food costs, yet eat well. Here are some shopping and money-saving tips to help lower your grocery bill:

- Choose seasonal fresh fruits and vegetables offered at a lower price when supplies are abundant; also, shop at a local farmers' market for locally grown foods that are fresh, and comparable in price — or less expensive.
- Use perishable foods within two to three days, or freeze for future meals.
- Check use-by dates before buying to ensure fresh products and flavor and curb waste.
- Plan leftovers. When cooking, make a larger recipe that will yield extra servings that can be frozen for future meals when time is short.
- Compare costs for national brand products with the cost for a generic or store brand that may be produced at the same facility.
- Choose frozen fruit juice concentrates and re-constitute them as needed, rather than buying bottled versions that typically cost more.
- Keep a running list of prices for favorite items, and stock up during sales.
- Buy often-used items in bulk to save on packaging costs. If desired, measure out single servings of snacks and place them in reusable containers, rather than purchase more costly pre-packaged single servings or relying on vending machines.
- Look for reduced-price foods that will work for upcoming meals. Ground beef may, for example, be reduced in price, but will need to be cooked the same or next day or frozen for future meals.
- Ask for a rain check to buy sale items (that are sold out) later at the same low price.

- Use coupons only after comparing prices. Coupons do not always guarantee a savings.
  - Marinate and/or slow-cook in moist heat the less tender (and usually less costly) cuts of meat for a savings — and a flavorful meal.
  - Buy foods that provide the most grams of protein per dollar, such as bagged dried beans, lentils and peas, dry milk powder, canned dry beans, canned tuna, frozen dry beans and peanut butter. These currently cost less than 10 cents for 6-8 grams of protein.
  - Check recommended portions versus serving size. Trimming overly-generous portions can help reduce excess body weight - and food costs.
  - Eat before shopping to reduce impulse purchases.
- Further information regarding ways to save money at the grocery store and with food preparation at home can be found by calling your local K-State Research and Extension Office.

Club 'whoops' it up as they take it off

Members of the Take Off Pounds Sensibly (TOPS) No. K5 155, Norton, did a "do-si-do" as part of recreation at their weekly meeting. The dancing members are Joan Knoll, left, Geneva Berry, center, and Gloria Cole. At the club's last meeting, a $50 check was presented to Rich Miller, director of the Norton County Hospital. The check was in appreciation of the hospital allowing the club to meet in its basement for several years, at no charge. ## Survivors to be honored at June 12 'Relay' reception

Cancer survivors will be honored at a reception at 7 p.m., Thursday, June 12 at the offices of Disabled Services of Northwest Kansas (DSNWK).

Survivors that will be participating in the Relay for Life fundraising event June 20-21 will be able to pick up their T-shirts that night. Light refreshments will be served.

Prior to the reception, at 6 p.m., "Bank Night" will also be held at the office. Teams that will be taking part in the relay are urged to turn in their money and pick up their team T-shirts. The Relay for Life theme this year is, "Remember, Celebrate, Fight Back". That is exactly what the Norton community wants to do in honoring cancer survivors along with those who have died from this disease.

The theme encourages survivors to "Remember" the day they received the diagnosis; to "Celebrate" every day of survival; and to continue to "Fight Back" through donations to the American Cancer Society to find a cure for this dreaded disease.
