Circus serves as local fund raiser

Fire department requests grant funds

The Lenora Rural Fire Department is looking to update some of its equipment by applying for a CDBG grant, at an estimated cost of $125,700.

Corina Cox, Northwest Kansas Planning and Development representative, told the Norton County Commissioners during their Monday meeting that the cost of the project would be $116,000, but the total cost will be $125,700 with the Northwest Kansas Planning and Development administration fee added. She said the fire department will match funds with $18,855.

Terry Peterson, Lenora Rural Fire Department chief, said the department has several pieces of equipment from the 1980's. The most recent purchase was a pumper truck in 2004.

The new truck, if funded, would be a combination truck and would replace the rescue and tanker trucks.

"We're looking to replace two with one," Peterson said.

He said their tanker is on loan from the forestry service.

"We've had it 10 years," he said.

Cox said the application is competitive.

"They have to update their equipment," said Commissioner John Miller.

"There is a need there," Cox said. She said they would know in August if they had been funded.

She presented a resolution regarding the application for the CDBG grant. Vote taken, motion passed.

The Norton City/County Economic Development Board traveled to Edmond on Tuesday to hold their monthly meeting, where they approved the 2011 budget, voted on new officers and discussed a variety of other issues.

In an interview after the meeting, Diane Stiles, director, said the office operates on approximately $110,000 a year. She said several line items changed, but they are requesting the same amount as last year.

"We thought it was very important to keep the budget at the same level," she said.

Board member Curtis Eveleigh said they reduced the amount of dues they pay, and they had to add in utilities since the office is scheduled to move into the former Moffet Station later this year.

"The largest adjustment was adding a line item for utilities at the station and removing the line item for rent," Stiles said.

Stiles said the other major line item change was the request to have more money in the special meetings line. She said those funds would cover special meetings, like the ones that took place (Budget - Continued on Page 5)

Accident results in injuries

On Wednesday at approximately 12:50 p.m. the Norton Police Department and Norton County Ambulance were dispatched to the intersection of Wilberforce and Jones, in reference to a small child that had been run over by a vehicle.

According to witnesses, the vehicle was traveling southbound on N. Jones when a six year old female on a bicycle went across the intersection of Wilberforce and Jones traveling westbound.

The bicycle struck the driver's side of the vehicle and both bike and child were run over by the rear wheel of the vehicle.

The Norton County Ambulance transported the child to the Norton County Hospital where she was treated then transported by Eagle Med to Kearney, Neb.

The Norton Police Department would like to remind parents to supervise their small children when riding bikes in the streets, and make sure the children are wearing safety gear such as bike helmets when they are riding their bikes.
