 will be okay but the testing takes 24 hours so we will not know until Tuesday if the boil order still stands." Lawson said.
 The city must follow what the Kansas Department of Health and Environment says when it comes to the boil order so as soon as they give the all clear the citizens of Norton will be notified.
 The last reported earthquake in Norton was in November of 2001 and measured 3.3 magnitude.

Another earthquake in 1961 had a 5.0 magnitude and then another one before it in 1933 measured 5.0 magnitude.
 Whether or not it was an earthquake may never be known, all that is known is that it shut some businesses down, kept the city workers very busy and inconvenienced the citizens of Norton. We don't realize how much water we use until we don't have it fresh from the tap.

Pilot was shot down over Vietnam

 In 1991, the crash site was excavated and "biologic evidence" was recovered. The evidence was taken to the military's central identification laboratory in Hawaii for examination but, the results yielded no identification of either crewman.
 It was in July of 2006 that the McCubbin family was contacted to supply a DNA sample to possibly identify remains being held at the laboratory. An uncle, Delmar E. Fredde, provided a sample. "You can imagine," said Ms. Stephenson, "That after all those years, the family would be a little skeptical."
 Confirmation soon came that the recovered remains were those of Maj. Glenn McCubbin. Harold McCubbin, flew to Hawaii to bring his brother home. Ms. Stephenson said, "Harold was satisfied with the results and we have to accept what happened to Glenn. I just wish Mom could have known about Glenn before she died in 1991."

 A private memorial service was held May 9, 2007 at the family farm northeast of Norton. Ms. Stephenson said the family was offered a military funeral but, the only thing they wanted was a "fly over". She said it was a perfect day and at precisely the perfect moment, a huge Air Force B-52 flew over the exact spot where the family stood with their brother's cremated remains. She added that, at the family's request, the date of his death was changed, on his military grave marker, from May 9, 1978 to May 19, 1968, the day his plane went down.
 Ms. Stephenson remembers her brother as a person who liked people of all ages. She said at the potluck dinner held at the 4-H Building in honor of her brother before he left for overseas, he made a point of talking to everyone of the more than 100 people attending. She said he was always considerate of others.

 Maj. McCubbin was awarded several medals including: the Purple Heart; the Distinguished Flying Cross with oak leaf clusters; the Air Medal with eight oak leaf clusters; the Air Force Commendation; and a Presidential Unit Citation.
 Ms. Stephenson said it is great the Vietnam Moving Wall is coming to Norton. Especially because there are so many men from the area listed on the Wall. She said, "It is quite an honor."
 Several members of the McCubbin family will attend the opening ceremonies on Thursday, Sept. 23, when a wreath will be laid by the Wall to honor her brother and the three other Norton County men who died in that war.
