Ed Braun said that the men decided to come to see the commissioners to clear up the issue.

Commissioner John Miller said that the county does not believe that the men took anything and that he believes they are entitled to more than they have gotten, since the county agreed with another landowner to provide 10 loads a year for a total of 40 loads as rent for use of the land.

Young Farmers & Ranchers Leaders Conference will take place Jan. 28-30 at the Hyatt Regency Hotel, 400 W. Waterman, Wichita. The theme for this year's conference is "Farming Beyond Your Field." The KFB Young Farmers & Ranchers program is designed to surface and develop the next generation of agriculture leaders. The Leaders Conference will be heavy on opportunities for young farmers and ranchers to influence farm policy and public opinion through involvement and participation in Farm Bureau.

"We are excited to offer a meaningful agenda at our Leaders Conference," said Jeff Bathurst, a Dickinson County farmer who serves as volunteer Chair of the KFB Young Farmers & Ranchers Committee.

During a Saturday morning keynote address, the KFB Young Farmers & Ranchers will hear from Dr. Jeff Stamp, recognized globally as a master creative practitioner in over 30 different industries, including food processing, advanced agriculture and venture capital. Stamp's topic is "Creative Innovation: The Entrepreneurial

Also on the agenda is a presentation from Troy and Stacy Hadrick, 5th generation ranchers from South Dakota, who will share their success in tapping into public trust of farmers and ranchers and actually influencing hearts and minds of those not directly connected
