

Bring down the house

After the family of Dean and Linda Esslinger purchased the property earlier this year, demolition has begun on the old Motel 36 on east Highway 36. The demolition is being done by Whitney Construction and Farms. Currently, there are no plans for reconstruction on the lot that will be left empty.

Organization seeks volunteers

Youth For Understanding (YFU), a nonprofit, international education organization, will celebrate its 60th Anniversary.

Youth For Understanding has been a leader in international student exchange facilitating 250,000 exchanges among 60 nations over the past six decades. With more than 12,000 volunteers worldwide and more than 4,200 exchanges each year, Youth For Understanding remains an industry leader as it works to prepare young people for their responsibilities and opportunities in a changing, interdependent world.

Youth For Understanding is looking for local host families to host high school exchange students for the 2011-2012 school year. Host families provide a place to live and three meals a day plus the encouragement, advice and love to help their new family member through a semester or year in a new home. The students bring their own spending money and health insurance plus the willingness to be a good family member, following family rules and helping out with family responsibilities. Youth For Understanding local representatives support the students and families to make sure it's a good experience for all involved. All kinds of families host, with and without children of all ages.

Pamida gives back

Pamida shows its support for schools in its local communities with the announcement of this year's Back-To-School program. Through its affiliation with the Pamida Foundation, Pamida is focused on supporting education and serving as a dedicated community partner.

Throughout August, customers can help schools in their communities by donating a $1 or rounding up their purchase at their local Pamida store. The Pamida Foundation will match up to $250 of store contributions in each community.

To further show its support for schools, the Pamida Foundation will also donate 5% of sales rung up at each Pamida store on Sunday, Aug. 21. This additional funding will be donated to the schools designated by each Pamida store to help underprivileged children purchase needed school supplies.

"We are proud to give back to local schools in our communities," said Jessica Strohman, executive director of the Pamida Foundation. "There are many children and families that do not have the necessary items to start school. The Foundation is proud to help those in need and is grateful for the generosity of our customers in making our Back-To-School program a success."

In 2010, the Pamida Foundation supported 950 charitable organizations and provided over $1.1 million dollars in funding to local communities, including over $270,000 toward education.
