

LYLE NEWS

Charles Keller and Inez faced the sun and fog to be with us on Sunday. He filled the pulpit at Lyle on Sunday with an interesting and helpful talk on our inward GPS which will keep us on track if we let it.

June Jolly was disappointed in her plan to watch the balloons in McCook, Neb. as the show was cancelled because of rain and threat of lightning. She had pancakes at the park on Sunday morning, then had lunch with her daughter, Linda McFarland and Megan. She has her turkey wall hanging done.

Kathy Van Meter and Lloyd Frandsen enjoyed the Maggie Mae's two and a half to three hour concert on Saturday evening. Maggie Mae, of Oxford, Wisc. with her six piece band sang, danced and yodeled. She can be seen on the RFD channel.

Carol Moye and great-granddaughters, Kylie and Skylar, visited me on Saturday. Aubrey High spent one evening. It's great how they liveen up a

JENNINGS NEWS

The Lions Club will be serving lunch in the Community Hall on election day, Nov. 6. They are also collecting old eye glasses and/or frames to send to needy countries. You may give them to any Lions member or bring them with you on election day when you come to lunch. More on this in next week's paper.

Those enjoying playing cards on Wednesday were: Eleanor Morel, Diane Carter, Agnes Wahlmeier, Stan Shaw, Alice Wagoner, Alice Mizer, Scott Taylor, Ramona Shaw, Debbie Shields, Wayne Cressler, Ann Swezeitis and Louise Cressler.

It was nice to have three tables to play pinochle.

Wayne and Louise Cressler have been enjoying family members visiting this past week. On Thursday, Sept. 27 we celebrated my birthday. Arriving on Thursday were: Gwen Anderson, Council Grove; Sharon Gaston, Ames, Iowa; Megan Faris, Jessica Lemmons, Gabe, Josie and Daniel, Manhattan; Hannah Spresser and Malachi, Cleveland, Tenn.; Terri Spresser, Tony and Lucas, Calhoun, Tenn.

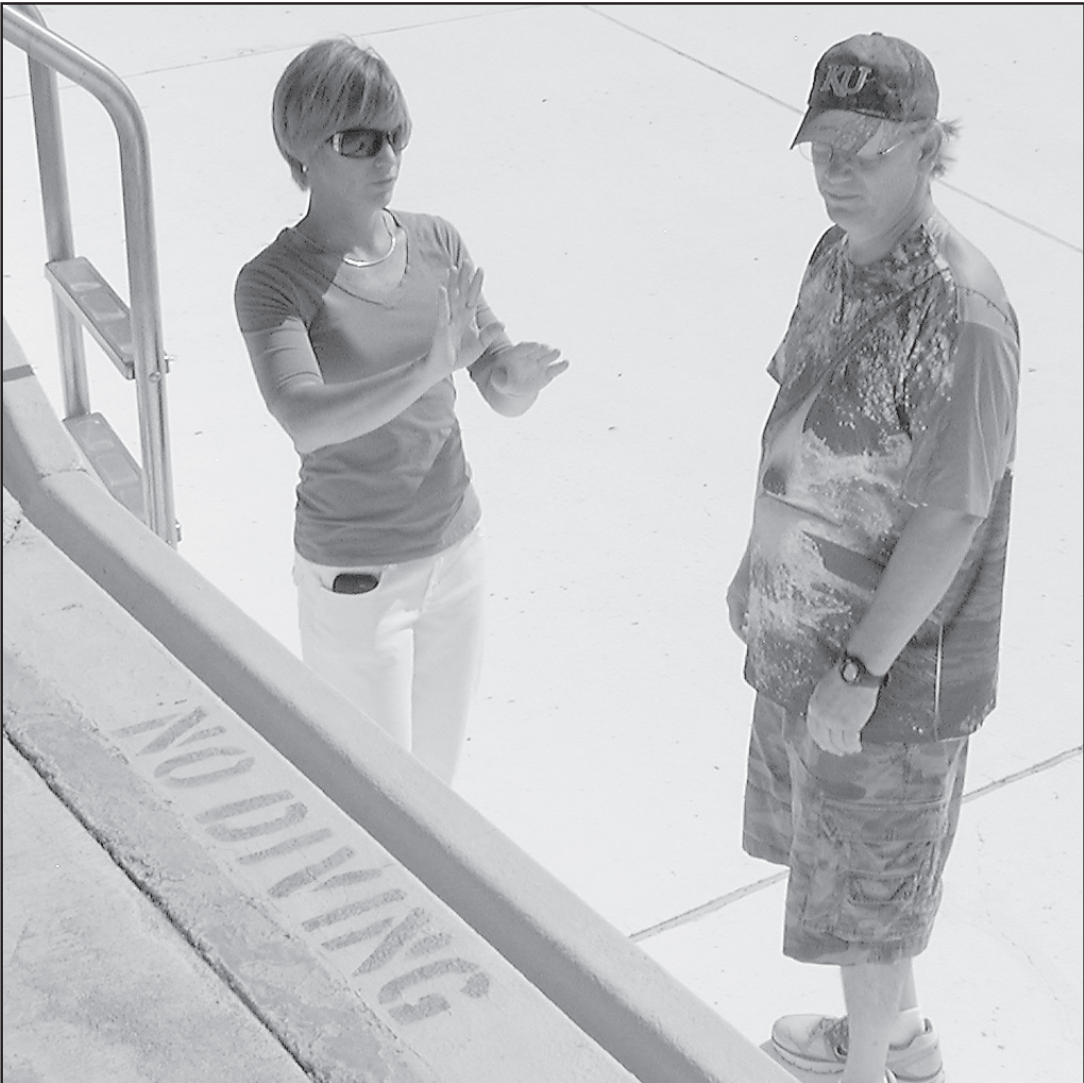

Granddaughter, Jessica baked and decorated a beautiful birthday cake like a crossword puzzle. On Saturday and Sunday, Russell Cressler, Bison; Mary Kinser, rural Jennings; Jeff Anderson, Council Grove, joined the group. Most of the family went home on Sunday except the family from Tennessee who will be starting home on Tuesday.

Tuesday, Oct. 9 at 6 p.m. there will be a potluck supper held at the Sunflower Senior Center. We would like to see more people join us. Everyone is welcome.

City council meeting will be held on Thursday, Oct. 11 in the senior center.

The Norton Pool Promotion Committee held an open house Sunday afternoon at the Norton public swimming pool. Intended to highlight deficiencies and problems with the current facility, the open house featured tours of the pool and information about the Nov. 6 election that will ask the public to support a sales tax to construct a new pool. Tours were conducted by former pool manager Jill Lively and Norton City Council member Roberta Ryan, along with other city employees and committee members. About 50 people visited the pool for the open house. Pictured, Jill Lively points out some of the problems with the current pool to Todd Johnson.
