Oberlin racer breaks record

By MIKE HUGHES

Oberlin's David Murray Jr. wrote his name in the IMCA record book Saturday night at Elmwood Park Speedway in Norton, winning his 329th career feature win to break the record set by Ernie Derr in 1971.

Murray won the IMCA Modified feature. Polesitter Brice Riley took the early lead in the 18-lap main event, trailed by Jeff Walters and Mitch Kline.

Murray worked his way up to fifth place from his ninth starting spot on lap 4, when the first caution flag waved.

The caution waved again on lap 7 when John Fose spun. Riley led on the restart, followed by Walters, Murray, Kline and Rick Schwab.

On the restart, Riley spun after contact from Kline, bringing out the caution and putting Kline to the back of the field.

After one lap, debris off Riley's car laid in turn 2 and officials had to bring the yellow back out. Because it was debris from his car, Riley had to go to the back of the line.

Murray had passed Walters, so Murray sat on the point, followed by Walters, Schwab and Brian Calhoon.

Murray pulled away to a half-lap lead when the final caution waved on lap 19, bunching up the field, and setting up a green-white-checked finish. But the Oberlin driver pulled away during the final two laps to score his fifth win of the season at Norton and the record breaking No. 329.
