Students parade for homecoming

Homecoming has come and gone, providing the first win for the Red Devil football season, floats, and a king and queen.

Friday afternoon Kenzie Fisher and Ace Manning were named king and queen during the pep assembly before loading into the back of a convertible heading downtown for the parade.

People lined both sides of Main Street, most of them dressed in red showing support to the school.

The parade started as the band walked south playing a song by "The Doors," before taking a break and starting up again.

Floats boasted red bulldogs over camp fires and snappy sayings all made by each of the classes at the high school.

Cheerleaders threw red footballs from the top of the fire truck while the volleyball team chanted a cheer. The football team and cross country teams rode by on flat bed trailers as those on the street cheered.

Each of the homecoming court rode in the back of convertibles waving to people they knew.

That night the boys won the game 34 to 14; the first win of the season.

They weren't the only winners of the evening as the seniors took first in the float competition, juniors second, freshman third and sophomores fourth.

KIRAMEITL (above) rode on top of the fire truck as she threw out red footballs to the crowd on the street. The Class of 2008 (below) decorated the front of the truck with its float with a snappy phrase.

ONE OF THE FLOATS had large cutouts of several of the football players on it.
