

Aftermath of Monday's storm —

Herald photos by Karen Krien

RIIVERSIDE RECREATION (top) east of St. Francis had been dry all year but after Monday's rain, the number two green looked like an island. Clockwise: Hay bales belonging to Bud Stuart were setting in a pond and the water was still roaring in; this residence north of Wheeler was flooded; the sky before the storm was heavy with clouds and people were out looking for tornadoes; Amber Fromholtz and Yo Watanabe were having fun wading in the water running down the gutters of Main Street.
